DR. ALLEN ON CHINA.

"China Made Willing," His Theme at Broad-Street Methodist,

Dr. Young J. Allen, who has spent the greater part of his life as missionary of the Methodist church to China, is visiting Richmond and brings a most interesting story with him. He declares that China has been "made willing" to receive Christian instruction and to open her great resources to development by American capital. He declares also that Christianity and commerce go hand in hand and that one cannot advance in China without the other. He does not believe in the war of conquest, but he does believe in the expansion of Christianity, in the expansion of American trade, in the building of the Nicaraguan cansi. He declares that China is one of the greatest iting Richmond and brings a most inthe building of the Nicaraguan canal, He declares that China is one of the greatest countries on earth, that it has fabulous riches in the way of coal and iron and gold and silver, that the people are the equal of any people on earth intellectual. ly, that they have a civilization that is equal to any barring the refining influ-ences of Christianity, and that the field now wide open for American occu

The story was told before a large congregation at Broad Street Methodist church Sunday afternoon, and the discourse was almost sensational. "China course was almost sensational. "China Made Willing" was the theme, and the reason of its willingness was the chief feature of the discourse.

Dr. Allen contrasted the progress of Japan with that of China, and said that the Chinese who regarded the Japanese as upstarts and renogades were now, especially since the war between China and Japan, impressed with the fact that Japan has something which China has not, and that that something is Christian civilization. The beginning of this change in Japan, he said, was the treaty between China and Japan on the one hand and the European nations and America tween China and Japan on the one hand and the European nations and America on the other. In this treaty it was stipulated that every citizen of a foreign country residing in China or Japan should be under the protection always of his own flag. China submitted, but Japan protested on the ground that this was an assumption on the part of Europe and a confession on the part of Japan that she as a nation was not the equal of the other parties to the contract. Europe and America insisted on the letter of the contract, and Japan continued to protest contract and Japan continued to protest until finally Europe said "Very well, go and qualify." Japan began to study this proposition and had sense enough to see that it meant that she as a nation should that it meant that she as a nation should lift herself up to the level of European nations by adopting their system of government. She set about 15 accomplish this thing in good earnest and so well has she succeeded that next year Japan will be received into the comity of nations and will be recognized as one of the great civilized powers of the world.

China has now awakened to the fact that Japan stands head and shoulders, higher than China in the estimation of the great nations, and she also recognizes reat nations, and she also recognizes by adopting the customs of the Japan has greatly improved her tion. China has determined, therecondition. China has determined, there-fore, to follow the example of Japan and as a starter has decided to abandon her system of education, a curriculum that has been in vogue for 1,500 years, and to substitute the system of Europe. To that end she has invited Christian missionar-ies to take positions in her schools and to instruct her people. Dr. Allen's concluinstruct her people. Dr. Allen's corclu-sion is that none but Christian mission-aries can do this work, and that such an opportunity for missionary work in China, for Christianizing that wonderful country has never been since the missionary

TO CONFER WITH WAR SECRETARY.

Governor Tyler Will Visit Gen. Alger at Washington.

A FULL REGIMENT IS WANTED

An Effort Will be Made to Have Men From the Second and Third Take the Places of Those Discharged from the Fourth, Governor Tyler and party returned from Savannah Sunday night, having spent two days most delightfully in that city. "The distinction and honor pald was most gratifying to the whole party," said the Governor. "We had been notified that Colonel Taylor would arrange for us to review the Fourth Regiment, but General Hasbrouck had the whole brigade brought | might be taken to the United States Suout in our honor, and the next day General Lee gave a grand review of his splendid corps. The whole city and surrounding country seemed to have turned out, making the occasion a grand one. General Lee is justly proud of his corps and they seem to almost idolize him and they seem to aimest donze him.

Colonel Taylor has a splendid regiment, and has evidently devoted his great energies and ability in perfecting it in drill and discipline. I visited the hosiptal, and I also inspected the cooking arrangements of the companies. All of these were in good condition. There were but few men in the regimental hospital, and these were of course not serious cases. In fact there was but little sickness among the men. among the men among the men.

ONE DISAPPOINTMENT.

"I confess I shared the disappointment of Colonel Taylor in that he could not show as full a regiment as most of the others, but I reflected there were reasons for the depiction in the ranks of the Virginia Regiment that did not exist as to the others, and this is why so many discharges have been gotten and so many are being applied for. It ought to be borne in mind that all the companies of the Fourth are old volunteer companies and that a large per cent, perhaps, most of the men left good positions to go with their companies because they felt it was of the men left good positions to go with their companies because they felt it was their duty, and they giadly did this as long as they felt they were needed to fight. But when it became a question of merely doing garrison duty, and completing arrangements for the government of the Cubans it was another question, and naturally, the men who are making financial sacrifices, or who have dependent ones at home to support want honorable discharges from the rervice, and it was to arrange for this that I went to Savannah.

PATHETIC APPEALS.

"The appeals that have been made to me have been so numerous, and so touching that I have hardly been able to stand the strain. General Lee seeing the situation during his visit here promised to help secure action on all meritorious cases, and I think Colonel Taylor and most of his officers have been impressed with the importance of endorsing discharges in proper cases.

"Colonel Taylor and the captains have, of course, been very anxious to have the regiment makes as good appearance as possible, and I share this with them fully, and for the credit of the State I am sure have a regiment in the service we want the fullest as we know it will be the best. I think this desire has perhaps caused the officers to be a little too rigid in re-fusing to endorse applications for dis-charge. Of course, we all want at least one Virginia regiment to remain in the service. Virginia should not be the first State to ask for a wholesale discharge of her soldlers. We will not get credit for the immune companies organized in the State, and for many other Virginians who have enlisted from other States. Therefore, whilst anxious to accommodat the meritorious applications for dis-charge, I am in fullest sympathy with the wish of the officers that we should have the best regiment possible in the set vice, and as the Fourth is the only whit organization we have, I will endeav or to have its ranks filled up by men from

THE GOVERNOR'S PLAN. have his regiment retained in the service. In fact, I have earmestly hoped that he would succeed, but as his efforts have mot been availing I will now try and get men from the Second and Third to take the places of those in the Fourth who have been, and who ought to be discharged, and I think enough men can be gotten. I will at once see the Secretary of War and try and have arrangements of this kind made. I think a recruiting officer will be sent from the Fourth and men will be given transportation to the regiment.

A WINTER IN CUBA.

"The prospects for going to Cuba ought not to be discouraging," said the Governor.

nor.

"In the first place we all hope to see some Virginians in General Lee's command. In the next place, a trip to Cuba and a stay of five or six months ought to be delightful, and might be made profitable. Plenty of men pay handsomely for the privilege of spending a winter in Cuba, and whilst to be a private soldler may not afford the best advantages, still there are many men I would think that would enjoy it. I do not think volunteers will be kent lower than the will be kept longer than five or six months. By that time a stable govern-ment will be established, and the soldiers will return before the sickly season.

"The hospitality and cordial breeting of the people of Savannah was unbounded, and we will not forget Colonel Taylor and General Lee for great honor shown VISIT ALEXANDRIA TO-DAY.
